Spring's Smart Suit for Younger Men

FATHER DESTROYS FAMILY, ARRESTED

WITNESSES IN DAMAGE SUIT BEING HEARD

Jury Obtained in Pettibone vs McKinnon Case In Common Pleas Court

TESTIMONY IS TAKEN

Ask New Trial In Ett vs Ett

Cases for the plaintiff were to be heard Tuesday in the case of Osmer Pettibone of South Bloomfield against John J. McKinnon of Columbus, which is being tried before a jury in common pleas court. The case being heard before Judge J. W. Adkins.

Kendrick Hogensten, William Pettibone, Hattie Pettibone, Lulu Gregg, John Pettibone and Frank Pettibone were expected to be examined as plaintiff's witnesses Tuesday.

The plaintiff is suing the defendant for $15,000 as the result of an accident on the Columbus-pk.

Helen J. McKinnon, Mary Lumpe, Edith Heller, Everett Lumpe and the defendant, Mr. McKinnon, will probably compose the witnesses for the defense.

A jury selected Monday is composed of Nelson Bll, Alh Schleich, Robert Colville, E. O. Adkins, Sam Woolford, Mike Decker, Mrs. Christina Hill, Frank Stout, Mrs. G. L. Hitler, Clay Hitler, Mrs. Louise Stump and Mrs. Alice Bowsher.

C. A. Weldon and Barton Walters represent the plaintiff and C. H. May, the defendant.

ASK NEW TRIAL

A motion for a new trial, setting forth four statements, has been filed in common pleas court, by Adkins & Adkins in the case of Horsley E Ett of Columbus against E. E. O. Ett and others of Ashville. A jury last Friday returned a verdict sustaining the will of the late Margaret Davis, which the plaintiff attempted to break.

The motion is accompained by the following reasons for a new trial.

1. The verdict of the jury is not sustained by evidence.
2. The verdict of the jury is not sustained by law.
3. The court erred in it charge to the jury.
4. The court erred in refusing testimony offered by the plaintiff.

Judge J. W. Adkins will probably reject or grant a new trial, as soon as the Pettibone-McKinnon case has been finished in common pleas court.

SUIT DISMISSED

The divorce suit of Etta James against John James in probate court has been dismissed by Judge E. A. Brown.

Charles F. Brown, of this city, was arrested for Fairfield-co authorities by the sheriff's office, Monday.

SCHOOL TEACHER, PUPILS ARE KILLED

GENESEO, Ill., May 5.—An inquest was to be held today into the deaths of Miss Helen Scott, 26, a rural school teacher, and two of her pupils, Beulah Peterson, 7, and June Mason, 8, who were killed yesterday when they were caught on a trestle near here by a Rock Island passenger train.

The teacher lost her life when she ran out on the trestle to drag the two children to safety. She succeeded in throwing from the track Edith Peterson, 8, sister of Beulah, who was not seriously injured.

Miss Scott and about a score of pupils were making preparations for a weiner roast when the tragedy occurred

KIDSTON KILLED

FAMED BRITISH AIRMAN KILLED

Lieutenant - Commander Glen Kidston Dies When Plane Crashes in Storm.

CAPE TOWN, May 5.—Lieutenant-Commander Glen Kindston, noted British sportsman-aviator, who recently established a new flight record between London and Cape Town was killed today in a crash during a storm over Natal, according to reports from that place.

A passenger in Kidston's 'plane also was killed.

The exact cause of the crash was not learned, but it was supposed the 'plane became unmanageable during the storm.

Kidston was known as one of the world's luckiest airmen because of his remarkable escape from death. The British aviator seemed to have a charmed life, rarely being injured in his numerous mishaps and always living to fly again. Even once he survived the crash of a German airplane near Croydon in 1929 of which he was the only one to live, he was regarded as one of Britains luckiest aviators.

The flight to South Africa in 6 1-2 days, was made in a speedy American plane in an effort to demonstrate the practicability of regular mail service between London and South Africa. Commander Kidston also had established the previous speed record for the flight.

Kidston's luck served him well during the World War, during which he served with distinction. He was one of the few rescued when the warships Orion and Hogu sank.

GIRLS WOUNDED BY GAS HAWKS

CLEVELAND, May 5.—"Gas hawk" assailants of two young girls, who were mysteriously shot in different sections of the city, were hunted by police today.

The victims of the shootings were Miss Louise Gaudig, 17, of Johnstown, Pa., and Miss Geraldine Marko, 20, Cleveland. Physicians at Cleveland Clinic hospital where Miss Gaudig was taken after receiving treatment at Mount Sinai hospital, reported her condition as critical.

The Pennsylvania girl was shot as she walked along an East Side street with her cousin, Miss Olive Desmond, 16, with whom she was visiting in Cleveland, police said.

CAR STRUCK AT CROSSING

N. & W. Yard Engine Hits Chevrolet; None of Five Riders Are Injured.

Five persons in a Chevrolet sedan narrowly escaped serious injury at 5.45 p. m. Monday when the car was struck by a Norfolk & Western yard engine at the S. Court-st crossing. The Chevrolet, driven by Mrs. Nellie Harmount, R. F. D. 2, Chillicothe, was badly damaged after being dragged 50 yards by the engine.

It is reported the Chevrolet was driven onto the railroad property and while crossing the tracks the gates were lowered to permit the engine to pass. The car was trapped and was struck.

The yard engine was traveling eastward and the car was going south.

The following mayors of county villages, S. D. Fridley, Ashville; L. M. Harsh, Commercial Point; George Williamson, New Holland, and Dr. S. J. Irwin, Tarlton, were also in attendance.

Dr. M. A. Elstein, newly appointed county health officer, was elected secretary of the District Advisory Board.

Alva Courtright, of Ashville, was named to fill the vacancy of John W. Hay, of Harrison-twp, who resigned as a member of the Pickaway-co Board of Health for the balance of the term.

Harry Dick, of Monroe-twp, whose five-year term as a member of the county board has expired, was re-elected for another five-year period.

The Advisory Board resolved at the conclusion of the meeting, to hold a get-together meeting each month with the members of the county health board in order to obtain closer cooperation between the two groups and to be of greater service to one another.

BANK FAILURE INJURES CITY

Jackson Is In Quandry Over Funds; $100,000 in Defunct Bank.

Jackson city council is in a quandary over the finances of that city. Due to the failure of the Citizen's bank in that city more than $100,000 of the city's funds are now in the defunct organization.

An ordinance was passed whereby the city treasurer was authorized to borrow $2,500 to temporarily bridge over the present financial embarrassment.

PLAN ELECTION BOARD OFFICE

Although plans have not been completed, the board of county commissioners, composed of M. H. Dreisbach, John W Hay and Edgar W. Beatty are making arrangements to rent a room in the city building, where the board of elections will hold their meetings.

H. E. Weill, clerk of the board, will probably be in the office at all times.

Salesman Pours Oil Over Four

Baby and Child, Aged 3, die in Oil Flames, Mother, Other Child to Die

BOUGHT INSURANCE

Living Torches Made of Sleeping Family

GREELEY, Colo., May 5—A tragedy that nearly wiped out the family of James V. Foster, 48, a salesman, was revealed today with the discovery of the body of Darline, 19-month-old daughter of Foster, burned to a crisp in their home here. Gerald, aged 3, died later.

The wife and mother Myrtle, 40, and Mildred, 12, another daughter, were badly burned and it was feared they will die.

Foster was arrested later.

Police investigation disclosed that coal oil from a jug had been poured over Mrs. Foster and the children while they lay asleep. A match was touched to the bed and the victims became living torches.

Police said Foster had recently taken out insurance on every member of the family. He was held in jail here.

HENRY RITES ON WEDNESDAY

Native of City Passes Away In Xenia; Was Very Prominent Woman Here.

The funeral cortege of the late Margaret Elizabeth Henry, 82, widow of John Henry, both very prominent citizens of this community, who passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Margaret Harner in Xenia, at 12:45 p. m., Monday, will arrive here Wednesday at 10 a. m., and will go direct to St. Joseph's church, where Rt. Rev. Fr. J. S. Hannan will officiate at the requiem high mass.

Mrs. Henry was a native of Circleville being born here on June 30, 1849, the daughter of Stephen and Margaret Fox Feeney. On October 8, 1867, she was united in marriage with John Henry, who preceded her in death on April 18, 1922.

Before her health became impaired, Mrs. Henry took an active part in the civic life of this community, serving for several years as president of the Home and Hospital during the time when that institution was used as a hospital by local physicians.

She was a devout member of St. Joseph's Catholic church, and took an active part in the social life of the community.

Besides her daughter, at whose home she died, she is survived by the following children, Stephen J. Henry of Hollywood, Calif.; Mrs. Marie Abernethy of Columbus; Eliot Henry of Chicago, Ill; and Miss Zelma Henry of Baltimore, Md., and a sister, Mrs. S. A. Henry of Denver, Colo.

Interment under the direction of the W. H. Albaugh Co., will be in St. Joseph's cemetery.

N. & W. CONDUCTOR KILLED MONDAY

Peter Zimmer, aged 58, of Columbus, freight conductor for the Norfolk & Western railroad, was killed Monday north of Waverly when he fell beneath the wheels of a box car. It is understood he was setting the brakes when he lost his balance

Mr. Zimmer was well known by railroad men in this vicinity having stopped here a number of times.

His widow, two sons and a brother, all of Columbus survive.

TRIBUTE PAID TO DEPARTED BY KIWANIANS

Lieut. Gov. Fred White Eulogizes Edward Crist and J. J. Phillips Mon.

TEN CLUBS CONVENE

"Fellowship Hour" Observed at Session

Excellent tribute was paid by 200 Kiwanians in an inter-city session at Chillicothe Monday evening, to the late Edward Crist, a director and charter member of the local Kiwanis club, and to the late Prof. J. J. Phillips, of Lancaster, one of the bulwarks of the organization in that city. Fred White, of Columbus, lieutenant governor of this district of Kiwanis, in a short talk, in very well chosen words delivered eulogies to the two departed members of the organization.

Besides an excellent delegation from the local club, four Columbus clubs, Lancaster, Logan, Portsmouth and Hillsboro were represented besides the host club, Chillicothe.

HUGH FULLERTON SPEAKER

Hugh Fullerton, Sr., noted columnist and feature writer of the Columbus Dispatch, was the principal speaker of the evening and his experiences in the newspaper world proved very interesting to the gathering. Billy Ireland, the Dispatch's cartoonist, was expected to attend the meeting but could not make the trip.

Presidents of the various clubs, including E. I. Gephart, local president, gave short talks in addition to White's talk.

A feature of the meeting was the radio address from the 15th annual International Convention at Miami, being held May 3 to 7. No one from the local club is attending the convention.

All Kiwanis clubs, in both the United States and Canada, arranged their meetings Monday evening in order to tune in on this "Fellowship Hour" program.

The meeting Monday evening, which was termed generally as one of the finest inter-city sessions ever held in this district, was in charge of R. L. Radford, chairman of the Chillicothe club inter-city relations committee, with Howard Layman and Harry Ottman in charge of the program.

Members of the local club who attended were Rev. William Alexander, Emmitt L. Crist, C. E. Hill, Tom A. Renick, E. I. Gephart, Sterling Lamb, Russell Imler, John H. Dunlap, Sr., and John H. Dunlap, Jr., Clarence Helvering, Alfred Lee, Rev. B. C. De Camp, Bishop Given, Harold Eveland, Charles H Radcliff, Sam C. Grant, Harry Denman, B. T. Hedges and Homer Gleadell.

Six Months Old Child Follows Rest of Family to Death After Blaze.

PORTSMOUTH, O., May 5—The last surviving member of a family of five was dead today as the result of an explosion and fire at a farm home at McDermott, near here, April 24

Burns suffered in the blaze caused the death of Homer Frederick Crabtree six-months-old son of Mr and Mrs. Arthur Crabtree.

Two of the child's brothers were unable to escape from the burning house and Mr and Mrs Crabtree died a few hours later from burns received when a stove exploded Crabtree tried to hasten a fire by pouring kerosene onto the coals, and the blast injured his wife, his six-months old son, and himself.

YOUTH HOP OFF

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, May 5—Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, Jr., American aviators took off from San Juan at 7.50 a. m. today for Miami Florida on their return flight to New York

The airmen flew to San Juan by way of Haiti on a test flight before starting on a projected round the world journey

They hope to reach Miami in a single hop.

KILLER CONFESSES MURDER

Frank Jordan, 33, confessed slayer of Policeman Anthony Ruthy, was indicted for murder within less than twenty-four hours after he killed Ruthy and seriously wounded Policeman Patrick Durkin in Chicago, Thursday, who tried to arrest him. He admitted having taken $4,000 in a holdup of a bank in Neponset, Ill, on April 22. Jordan also is wanted for several recent bank robberies.

GOVERNOR WHITE WILL GREET HUNGER MARCHERS AS FRIENDS

Co-operation in Search For Food Offered by Executive; Marchers Appear Disgusted With Trip and Many Are Ready To Return to Their Homes.

COLUMBUS, O., May 5.—"Friendly."

That's the kind of a reception the "hunger marchers" will get from Governor George White when they arrive here to talk to him about unemployment he declared today.

Ready cooperation in the paraders hunt for food was promised by the chief executive.

"We'll all hunt," the Governor declared.

When the band of marchers arrive here the Governor will consent to be interviewed by the leaders or by a committee chosen by the group he said.

He stated he believed he will follow the policy of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt in New York, who recently was visited by a crowd of unemployed marchers.

WILL SEE COMMITTEE

They all wanted to visit him in his offices, Governor White recalled, but Governor Roosevelt only consented to see a committee.

"They wanted him to distribute the surplus I think," Mr. White said. He was a guest of Governor Roosevelt at the time of the demonstration.

"If they ask me for the surplus I'll tell them they can have it. That will be safe enough. Ohio still has a deficit.

"Call out the militia?" "pooh, pooh", the Governor said. "I should say not."

Governor White reminded the reporter that he has already "messaged" the legislature to take up a study of unemployment insurance, one of the demands being made by the marchers and has gone as far as he can.

Alternately riding and walking and with many of the delegates already plainly disgusted, Ohio's "hunger marchers" journeyed along highways today toward the state capital to demand employment and other relief from the state legislature when it convened on May 11.

Only the fact that home is nearly as far away as the state capital was believed to prevent many of the marchers from deserting the rank and returning. Many of the delegates were taking turns riding in commissary trucks which follow each caravan with food and water.

Somewhat higher in spirit than their Cleveland, Youngstown comrades were the Toledo and Cincinnati "marchers" when they set out today for Findlay and Hamilton respectively.

These two groups started the long stretch to Columbus Monday.

WOOSTER UNHOSPITABLE

Cambridge was the scheduled objective for the Bridgeport, St. Clairsville delegation which set out on its third day of marching today.

Foot-sore and in deflated spirit, the Cleveland, Youngstown band called a halt at Wooster last night. As if to add to the burdens which already have threatened to bring about mutiny, Wooster appeared not at all sympathetic toward the army.

No "official welcome" was offered the weary caravan at this stop-over, even a supply of food was not forth-coming and this had to be obtained from the nearly depleted commissary truck.

Friday the Cleveland, Youngstown aggregation and the Toledo marchers are to merge forces at Marion and complete the last two days of the long journey to Columbus together.

GOODYEAR TO HIRE 800 IN FACTORIES

AKRON, O May 5 Increase in tire production at the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company here, and the employment of 800 more men to produce the additional output was announced here today by Paul W Litchfield president of the company

Litchfield stated that the production at the main plant here would be increased from 56,500 to 60,000 tires per day Inner tube production also is to be stepped up from 60,000 to 84,000 daily, it was said.

Former employes of the Goodyear Company will be re-hired to handle the increased production, Litchfield said.

JAPANESE ACE CONTINUES TRIP

LONDON May 5—Seiya Yoshihara, Japan's premier airman, today completed the second leg of his projected flight from Tokio to San Francisco and Washington according to dispatches to the evening newspapers here

He set his single-motored light plane down at Nemuro, on the northwestern tip of Hokkaido Island after taking off from Namasaki earlier in the day.

Yoshihara's next hop will be to Urup Island in the Kurile group.

POLICIES OF U. S. CHIDED BY TALKERS

Tariff Walls and Government Aid In Industry, Agriculture Scored

HOOVER IS IGNORED

Speakers of Three Nations Arrogant

WASHINGTON, May 5—Openly ignoring the warning of President Hoover, three of the outstanding economic leaders of the sixth congress of the International Chamber of Commerce hit controversal issues today by urging cancellation of world war debts and elimination of American tariff barriers, while pleading for international cooperation in restoring world prosperity.

President Hoover had declared the United States would not consent to any reconsideration of debt settlements.

First Alberto Pirelli, Italian industrialist and friend of Mussolini chided the United States for its tariff walls, warning the barriers would destroy America's foreign trade. Then he camly suggested a revision of debt settlement, declaring the debt payments were helping to postpone a recovery from world depression.

Then, Sir Alan G. Anderson, director of the Bank of England, asked "free buying" between nations, another way of depicting or lowering American tariffs. Next the Chancellor suggested cancellation of war debts as a measure certain to hasten the day of recovery.

Lastly, J. S. Edstrom, managing director of Sweden's great electrical trust, blamed the concentration of capital in the United States as one of the causes of world depression. He also condemned government aid for industry or agriculture, a polite method of condemning American farm policies.

While the three great economists touched upon verboten subjects, they were lavish in their praise of American ingenuity, genius and activity. All three expressed the world's amazement at the speed with which the United States assumed a commanding position among the industrial powers of the world.

Their addresses featured the morning session of the congress.

Beginning this afternoon, the International Chamber started round table discussions of world economics. High on this program were conferences on the Russian question and the silver issue, both calculated to stir up fresh controversy.

The business men of America, France and England undoubtedly will join in condemning Russian "dumping" practices, but it appeared the German and Italian delegations would defend Russian methods, due to doubt to the negotation of recent contracts with the Soviet republic.

EDICTS SHARKEY TO DAZZLE CARNERA AND WIN KNOCKOUT

By James L. Kilgallen

NEW YORK—Jack Sharkey figures to give Primo Carnera, the giant Italian, a neat pasting when they meet in their scheduled fifteen round bout at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, on June 10. If he doesn't give the Senor a first class lambasting, the Boston loudspeaker better once and for all drop the idea that he is the best fighter in the world today.

No doubt Sharkey will enter the ring a pronounced favorite to win I don't see how he can miss unless he pulls one of those famous Sharkey things. If you could figure Sharkey out you might be able to dope the outcome of this bout. But no one, not even the ring-wise Johnny Buckley, Sharkey's manager, has been able to tell what the temperamental and emotional Sharkey would do once he climbs inside the ropes.

If on the night of June 10, Mr. John Coccoskey has one of his good nights, it will be just too bad for the massive Carnera. For Sharkey, when he is "right" can step with the best of them. He showed that when he fought Jack Dempsey. He almost had the exchange out at one stage of the proceedings—before he made the mistake of turning his head to protest against a low punch to the referee. In a flash, Dempsey's fist hit Sharkey on the button, and it was all over but the counting of ten. Yet, in defeat, Sharkey showed he had plenty of stuff.

Carnera will be meeting no paluka this time. It will indeed be quite different from bowling over set-ups such as was Carnera's carefully picked diet over many months. Sharkey has met nearly all the best men in the heavyweight division—Dempsey, W. L. (Young) Stribling, Max Schmeling, Harry Wills, George Godfrey, Tommy Loughran, Johnny Risko, Tom Heeney, Jimmy Maloney, Phil Scott, Arthur De Kuh, Jack Delaney, Romera Rojes, Charlie Weinert, Floyd Johnson, K. O. Christner and many others. Apparently he has dodged one of the big fellows. He would have like to take on Gene Tunney but they say Tunney had other ideas.

On the other hand, Carnera, in spite of the fact that his record shows an impressive list of names, is comparatively inexperienced. Nearly all the men Carnera met were set-ups and a good many of his fights left a decidedly cam-embert odor. The best man Carnera fought are Stribling, Paulino Uzcudun, George Godfrey and Jimmy Maloney.

Now if Carnera couldn't convincingly best the washed-up Maloney how can he expect to whip Sharkey? Carnera had two shots at Maloney. The first time he lost the decision in Boston; the second time, in Miami last February, Carnera was given the nod. The Miami fight was so close many thought the Boston fat boy had won. Carnera won a ten round decision from Paulino in Spain; he won on a foul from Godfrey in the fifth in Philadelphia and his two bouts with Stribling ended in fouls. He won on a foul from Stribling in London in the fourth round and lost on a foul in Paris in the seventh.

Outside of the fights named above you can throw out the rest of Carnera's record. Either he was meeting palukas or set-ups in practically all of his other bouts.

Maybe Carnera will surprise the fistic world by "taking" Sharkey. Some of the experts who dislike Sharkey contend that Carnara's size may awe the impresionable Bostonian. But I don't think so. If the set-to is on the level—and I have no reason to doubt but that Sharkey's superior boxing would dazzle and discomfort the rather crude Carnera and that before the fight would be many rounds old Mr. Sharkey would deliver the lethal blow to the kisser.

TIPS ARE GIVEN MELON GROWERS

The melon growing industry throughout the Scioto Valley has gained additional proportions each year. A good share of the acreage throughout the Scioto Valley is well adapted to the production of muskmelons and water melons.

Planting time is near at hand and while the grower is fitting his soil and making preparations to plant the crop, the following points may be profitably observed: First, liberal fertilization has proven economical in an increased setting of melons and in the production of quality. The following fertilizers are recommended as practical for melons: 4-12-4; 2-14-4; 2-12-6; 4-10-6 or 5-8-5. Applications of 500 to 600 pounds in the row or from 1,000 to 1,500 pounds broadcast have proven economical. Second, the worst enemy of the melon grower, it is generally agreed, is the cucumber beetle who starts his dastardly attack almost as soon as the melon seed germinates. Thorough dusting with calcium arsenate one part and gypsum, 20 parts by weight will give a most effective control of this insect enemy. In dusting for the striped cucumber beetle, it is most important that the dusting material be forced down around the seedling stock as these insects many times work just under the surface of the soil. If the Cucumber Beetle is controlled, one of the primary problems in melon production has been met. The calcium, gypsum dust may be used until the plant has grown to the place where the vines fall over. Third, to control Anthracnose, Downy Mildew Bacterial Wilt, Leaf Blight, etc. Spraying with Bordeaux 2-4-50 or dusting with a 15-85 copper lime dust, will give very satisfactory control. The Copper Lime dust is made by using 12 1-2 pounds of Monodehydrated Copper Sulphate, mixed with 70 pounds of a special grade of Hydrated lime.

With the observance of these recommendations, greater returns for more satisfactory results may be obtained from the melon acreage. Lime should not be used instead of gypsum in the calcium arsenate, gypsum dust for Striped Cucumber Beetle since lime has a dwarfing effect upon melon seedlings.

SAINTS BEAT LOUISVILLE TO-DAY

Ben Paschal Hits Home Runs; Red Birds Hold Margin, Lose.

COLUMBUS, O., May 5.—St Paul had a stronger hold on first place in the American Association today as a result of a 10 to 5 walloping it administered yesterday to the champion Louisville Colonels

It was the second win over Louisville for the Saints in two days and was regarded as an important game, since those two clubs are staging an early season battle for the league leadership.

Ben Tincup was charged with the loss and Bream, though he gave 13 hits, was credited with the victory. Paschal hit two homers and Anderson hit one for St Paul during a spree that netted seven runs in the seventh and eighth innings

An error by Knothe on Cooney's grounder helped Smith score in the tenth inning and Toledo won a pitchers' battle from Kansas City, 3 to 2.

Connolly yielded five hits and Fette gave the Mud Hens ten but all were well scattered.

Columbus moved over in third place to make room for Milwaukee following a 13 to 12 loss to the Brewers

Columbus took a four-run lead in the fifth but Kenneth Ash, Russ Miller and Ed. Chapman couldn't hold it.

Minneapolis employed a two-run rally in the last half of the ninth to defeat Indianapolis, 9 to 8 In story book fashion, Riconda doubled with two men out and the bases full in the last half of the inning and drove across the necessary markers.

Chain Stores

CHAIN-STORE competition has been the cause of some hysteria and much generalizing, all of which has neither helped the independent merchants nor hurt chains very much. But it did serve the useful purpose of including an intelligent study of the situation as part of the 1930 census, the result of which have just been made public.

In 485 cities and towns of 10,000 population or over, of a total retail trade of $15,000,000,000 the independent tradesman get 63 1-2 per cent. Of the rest of the business the chains with stores in two or more communities get 16 1-2 per cent and local chains or multi-units get 20 per cent. It is estimated that the chain systems' share of the nation's retail business is 10 per cent.

Chain-store competition with independent groceries is much greater than these percentages indicate for the reason that for some lines of retail trade it does not exists. In food the chain stores probably outweight the independents in volume of business. They have also taken over most of the independent tobacco stores.

But this does not prove that the chain systems are responsible for all of the small dealer's troubles. As many independent grocery stores went out of business each year before the chains entered the field as do now with the increasing competition from the chains.

These facts should give the independents new courage, for it is to their advantage to know whether they are fighting competition or their own inefficiency.

Cermak Miscues

WHEN the electrifying news of the defeat of William Hale Thompson for mayor of Chicago spread by newspaper and radio a few weeks ago, Chicago celebrated less than the rest of the country and strangers to the Middle West metropolis wondered why. They are now beginning to understand. Many Chicagoans doubt if anybody got the best of the bargain in the trading of "Big Bill" for Mayor Cermak.

Mayor Cermak will have to do better than he has up to now if he is to prove himself an improvement over his windy predecessor. Chicago is tired of windmill fighting.

Thompson tried to make King George the scapegoat for Chicago's sins and ills. Cermak started out on the morning after his inauguration to make the theater the scapegoat.

Censorship and suppression of plays and movies depicting gangland will not end gang warfare, nor will they improve Chicago's reputation beyound her municipal borders. It shows a guilty conscience for Mayor Cermak to imagine all such dramatic attempts to be directed at his fair city.

The mayoralty mind miscued on its natal day. Conceived in the noble purpose of destroying sordid realities, it spends its first day storming at the make-believe. And Cermak has said Thompsoism was dead.

Chicago's reputation, of which Mayor Cermak is so jealous, will take care of itself if the municipal administration will remove the cause of that reputation. And the cause is neither the stage nor the cinema.

Bilbo's Antics

GOVERNOR Bilbo, of Mississippi, is either an innocent victim of politics or a scoundrel. Either way his state and its people suffer.

The state has just witnessed the sordid spectacle of a "rump" session of the legislature adjourning and the legislators pledging themselves not to investigate the administration or impeach the governor or he will call a special session for the passing of appropriation bills for state salaries and public institutions.

Governor Bilbo would be justified in exacting such a pledge if he were in posession of reliable information to the effect that the legislature planned to bury the emergency fiscal legislation under an avalanche of anti-administration abuse. But if the pledge was taken in self-defense by a man guilty of malfeasance or misfeasance it was an abuse of power.

There may be two ways of looking at the strange situation in Mississippi. It is possible that the governor is using the state's $7,000,000 deficiency as a threat to prevent the impending investigation and impeachment, or the legislators may be using the investigation and impeachment threat to exact political favors from the executive.

Recent official acts of Governor Bilbo have left him a none too savory reputation away from home, so the country is disposed to believe that a knave has checkmated those who are playing the game in the interests of the people. But if so, he has only deferred the inevitable.

"MURDER AT EAGLE'S NEST"
By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

The murder of Baroness von Wiese at Eagle's Nest, Emily Hardy's country home is discovered by Assistant Police Chief Walter Vance through a mysterious phone call. Emily's butler denies receiving a note from the Baroness. The shawl of Mary Frost, a guest, is found on the body. Her husband, Ted, was enamored of the Baroness. Mary's statement of returning to Eagle's Nest, alone, for the shawl, at midnight, and seeing it on Laura Allan, is discounted by information that both she and Ted arrived home together at 4 A. M. Laura claims Mary was wearing the shawl in the garden. "Bim" Martin, young newspaper reporter and fiancee of Vance, sees the butler dancing and is puzzled. Later, she learns that the Baroness was Margot Belle, noted dancer. A pair of slippers is found on the roof and a uniform, similiar to the strip of linen discovered near the body, is unearthed in the cellar. "Bim" notes that the Baroness' maid wears large shoes though otherwise petite. "Bim" discovers the tire treads on Trents' car correspond with tracks found on an unused road near Eagle's Nest. Millicent Trent spies on her. Bob Trent resents a snub the Baroness had given his wife. Mary Frost is jealous of Ted. She warns "Bim" against giving up Vance for Carey, the New York reporter. While "Bim" is with Mary, Millicent calls. After she leaves, Ted misses his cigarette lighter. Emily's maid is frightened by strange noises emanating from the Baroness' dressing room. She divulges that Laura was in the garden with Ted the night of the murder. "Bim" plans to investigate the queer sounds. "Bim" sees Imogene spying upon Jane and William.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

BIM giggled softly. "Walter's not the only one whose jealous. In fact," her thoughts raced on, "there's also Mary and Ted—and probably hosts of others. Funny thing love is, it brings the greatest happiness there is and the greatest pain But then everything is sort of funny . . ."

Imogene knocked at the door a bit later and Bim admitted her. The girl's nose was red, as if she had been crying, but her eyes were angry and Bim did not feel really sorry for her. She seemed a capable young woman, quite able to take care of herself.

By leaning from the window of Imogene's room, Bim could see down upon the stone ledge along the top of the window in the dressing room below. The window itself was not visible, since the ledge formed a shelf above the panes; yet any sound in the room would come upward. Accordingly Bim set herself to listen, first making sure that Walter's pistol was safely in her handbag, even though she was sure she would have died rather than use it.

Miss Sherlock Holmes

There were, Bim considered as she waited, a certain number of things for her to accomplish at Eagle's Nest. First, of course, was the mystery of noise in the dressing-room to clear up. But also she must find a pair of feet to match the little silver slippers; she must find the magazine from which the page upon which the Baroness had written her note to the unknown had been torn—if that magazine still were in existence. She must try to find the other half of the note itself if that, also, had not been destroyed. And she must discover who it was that had burned a waist in the laundry stove downstairs . . .

Already she had made a study of feet and there was none which even conceivably would fit the silver slippers. When they were slim enough they were too long and when they were not too long they were much too wide. Even the feet of the men about the place had come in for her attention, with the result that only those of William had seemed worthy of note, though not, of course, because of the silver slippers. William's feet, Bim thought, were the most nearly perfect of any she ever had seen, being all slender contours and springing, graceful movement. But that, of course, would be natural for a dancer . . .

Nothing, it appeared, was going to happen. Lights all over the building went out; the clock on the reformed Church down in the village tolled eleven. Bim's eyes were heavy; she nodded . . .

The noise that awakened her was something between a shuffle and a very gentle tap. She sat up, instantly alert, and would have thought that she had been dreaming but for the faintest possible susurration somewhere—she located it almost at once as coming from the pipe which arose from the floor and went on up to the roof.

Leaning far out of the window, she thought she decried a dim glow along the sill of the window below, but could not be sure about this as the light, if there were any, might have been a reflection from the bulb over the kitchen door or even from the stars.

Then she heard the noise again—a shuffling tap it seemed now and presently it repeated itself and came regularly in rhythmic sequence.

A Tense Moment

Bim removed her shoes and stole downstairs. Outside the dressing room door she listened, ear to the keyhole. The sound was less distinct here and the keyhole was covered from the inside so she could not determine if the room were lighted.

With a swift catch of breath, Bim produced a key and fitted it into the lock. She tried to do this without noise, but her hand shook a little and there was a slight click. The door swung back; she stood in the dressing room.

Silence met her—silence and darkness. Groping in half panic, she found the button, pushed on the light. No one was in the room; no one at all. The door to the boudoir stood open, though Bim remembered how carefully Jane had closed and locked it. She went on into that chamber, lighting it before she stepped inside. The key lay upon the lowboy as Jane had left it. But there was no one there; nothing was disturbed.

Yet Bim had a sense of presence; the feeling one sometimes experiences of coming into a place only a moment ago quitted by another. It is something less than odor, something less than warmth which attests to most recent occupancy, and it was here now in the dressing room as well as in the boudoir.

And the window of the boudoir stood wide open.

Bim rested her hands on the sill and looked out into the night—looked out into blankness.

Bim telephoned Walter in the morning and he drove up in the police car, still looking grim, and talked with her out on the drive. He urged her to leave Eagle's Nest and stated his intention of himself doing duty in Imogene's room—he was insistent and gruff about this—but she maintained with tears in her eyes that he had no right to interfere with what she was doing and so at last he said no more.

"I hope things are going right for you," she told him timidly, half afraid of his new grimness and his new reserve.

"Well enough," he nodded. "Ought to clean up in a day or so."

"Oh? Can't you tell me, Walter?"

"No." Just that. But it was like a door slammed between her and himself. She watched him go with a lonely, desperate feeling.

But toward noon Carl Carey came along and shook an accusatory fist at her. "Think I'd let a little thing like your disappearing keep me away? Not any, girl friend. Wherever you go, I'll find you. Only what's the cause?"

She told a small, white lie. "No cause at all, big boy. I just wanted to be here where things are going on. Where do you go from here?"

"Wherever you go," he retorted promptly. "Just try to lose me!"

He was lovable—a cheerful, companionable soul. Bim introduced him to Em Hardy who invited him to luncheon immediately she understood that he represented the greatest of Metropolitan newspapers. And it was when William was serving the soup that Bim first felt something electric in the air; something which seemed to emanate from Carey himself. What that thing was she in no wise could have explained; it was intangible as a thought and yet it set her nerves on edge and subdued somewhat even Em's hilarity. William felt it, she fancied, for he seemed hurried and uncomfortable and made his trips into the dining room as brief as possible.

It was when he was obliged to spend some time moving about the table that Carey began to talk in a reminiscent way, sitting back with his eyes half closed.

"Go in for the theatre much?" he enquired of Em. "Not what it used to be in days when musical comedy was young. Remember the 'Wizard of Oz?' And 'The Red Mill?'" He hummed softly a few strains from song hits of those incomparable productions. "And—" he continued, "—'The Broadway Belle?'"

"The Broadway Belle," Em stated positively, "was the best of them all!"

"Sure was," Carey agreed. "Sweet lines. Swell music. Swell dance numbers."

Bim did not remember the "Broadway Belle," and said so. Carey shook his head, laughing. "Certainly you don't, baby. It's only us old campaigners that go that far back." He added, surprisingly, "Eh, William?"

"Sir?" Bim saw that the butler's face was as red as his hair and she felt a sense of outrage. But Carey merely laughed again, carrying it off in a way that seemed to amuse Em.

Bim scolded afterward. "This isn't Greenwich Village, Carl Carey, in case you didn't know."

"And one keeps the hands in their places—that it, baby? Sure, I get you. But there was a reason—in case YOU didn't know."

A light broke on Bim but she was puzzled. "Well, aren't you going to tell me what it is?"

Useless Questioning

"Tomorrow, maybe," he promised. "If it turns out. . . Listen: has the Banner any kind of a morgue? No? Then I'll have to go down to the city tonight; look up the dope. This, honey child, probably is going to be good."

She could get nothing more out of him and when he suggested that they go for a swim she agreed willingly enough.

As they descended the steep path to the beach they saw a tall, slender woman emerge from the water and go swinging along with a light step to the bathhouse. She dressed quickly for they had reached the bottom of the hill as she met them and passed the time of day in her pleasant but aloofly dignified way—the way of the maid Jane.

Bim stood looking after her as she climbed the path, plodding flat-footedly up the stones. And as she neared the bathhouse she peered at the prints the maid's feet had left on the sand—slim, little depressions with five fainter ones at each curved edge.

"She walks on the balls of her feet," Bim remarked in surprise.

"Most people do, baby."

"Yes—but look, Carl. No heel marks at all. And I thought she was flat-footed!"

"H'm." Carl was not interested, but Bim wondered. A curious thing, this was, that Jane, who wore those slattern, shapeless shoes should walk so lightly when she was barefooted. Was she one of those rare persons whose feet were too tender for the pressure of shoes? Odd. . . .

But she forgot Jane's feet once she was in the water. She was a better swimmer than Carey, who soon tired. They spent a half hour basking in the sun and finally dressed and climbed up to the drive to find Ted Frost lounging there and watching.

Theaters

AT THE GRAND

Charles Farrell has a new screen role. In previous Fox Movietone offerings, "7th Heaven," "The River," "Sunny Side Up," and "High Society Blues," he played a young French laborer, an engineer and a millionaire.

In "Liliom," which opens Wednesday at the Grand theatre he has an unusual part—that of an irresponsible, egoistic and reckless Austrian youngster, a "barker" in a sideshow, who comes to love one of the many girls who pursue him, but who avoids telling her so for fear of "spoiling her."

Frank Borzage directed the picture, a film version of Franz Molnar's famous stage success, "Liliom," with Rose Hobart, H. B. Warner, Estelle Taylor and Lee Tracy in the other featured roles.

AT THE CLIFTONA

"The Prodigal," with Lawrence Tibbett in the starring role and a supporting cast featuring Esther Ralston, Roland Young and Cliff Edwards, will open Wednesday at the Cliftona theatre.

The story written by Bess Meredyth and Wells Root presents the Metropolitan opera star in his first modern screen role, that of the son of an aristocratic Southern family who breaks home ties to become a "hobo."

Novel Screen Subject

This is believed to be the first time that the devil-may-care existence of the "tramp" and more particularly that laconic species of "hobo" which roams the South, has ever been depicted on the screen.

Any member of the family of E. W. Lutz, 356 E. Main-st, is invited to be a guest of The Herald to the Grand Theatre. Call at this office for ticket.

Discreet Use of Lamp Treatment Is Advised

Light Therapy Growing Popular and Is of Great Benefit in Many Cases, Says Authority, But It Should Not Be Used Indiscriminately

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

WITHIN recent years, light therapy has become very popular. The use of certain lamps under proper supervision is of great benefit. However, the indiscreet use of health lamps for every conceivable ailment may do harm.

"Actino-therapy," which is the name used for the treatment of certain ailments by rays of light, should be given only by a competent person who has received training in this subject. The ultra-violet rays are extremely beneficial, but also dangerous if handled carelessly.

When the skin is exposed to the rays of a carbon lamp, certain complex changes take place. The most marked of these is shown in the blood. The constituents of the blood, namely the red and white cells, the platelets, the fluid part of the blood, the hemoglobin, or coloring matter, all undergo marked changes.

When exposed to the ultra-violet ray, the red blood cells are slightly increased in number. After continuous treatment the coloring matter increases. It is believed, too, there may be slight increase in the number of white blood cells.

The blood platelets are tiny substances found in the blood stream. For a long time the functions of these bodies were not known. It is now believed they have something to do with the resistance of the body to infection. In acute infectious diseases, as coryza, measles, influenza, the blood platelets are decreased in number.

Following exposure to the ultra-violet rays, the platelets are increased. It is interesting to note that in animals kept in the dark and away from sunlight, there is a marked decrease in the number of these platelets.

In a recent experiment conducted on college students the ultra-violet treatment was found to be of distinct value. Sudents who were extremely susceptible to common colds and infections during the Winter months, were greatly benefited by this treatment. These students showed a 40 per cent decrease in the occurence of colds.

THAT the greatest asset any business can have is the confidence of their customers?

Business concerns that make the most phenomenal success are the ones who gain confidence with quality, price, service, and persistent advertising.

Concerns that continually make quality their motto and advertise that fact accomplish their highest ambition.

In so doing, they meet and satisfy the tastes and desires of the discriminating public.

These stores are always anticipating the desires of their customers. It is a pleasure to shop with them.

If there is anything new on the market, they have it.

This class of stores are leaders; others follow. Call on the leaders first.

State Plans To Remove Hazards

By H. EARL WILSON

COLUMBUS, O., May 5.—"Dead man's curves" and "suicide crossings" numbering at least a score, will be removed under provisions of the state highway department's 1931 grade elimination program announced today.

Railroad crossings to be removed are generally "more dangerous than usual" and the elimination projects consequently "will be beyond the average in cost," according to information obtained exclusively by International News Service.

Describing the need for crossing elimination as "urgent", officials said the highway department probably will not leave unspent a cent of the $1,000,000 allowed it annually for grade removal.

Since counties must equal the amount spent by the highway department and railroads are required to pay double that sum, the total to be expended in abolishing traffic hazards at crossings probably will reach $4,000,000.

After numerous conferences and hearings before the highway director, the railroads, counties and department officials have definitely agreed to remove crossings in Lorain, Portage, Jefferson, Wyandotte, Lucas, Fulton, Harrison, Noble, Clark, Knox and Franklin counties.

Crossings in Columbiana, Lorain, Belmont, Wood, Huron, Preble, Hamilton, Licking, Cuyahoga, Trumbull and Ashtabula, "are under consideration for immediate elimination," it was said.

Portage and Lorain county crossings are particularly hazardous because of their "winding alignment" highway engineers said.

The crossing in Lorain county, located west of Elyria on state route 59 at the New York Central railway, will be eliminated with the construction of an overhead bridge, the contract for which will be let in 60 days. The estimated cost is $165,000.

The Portage county crossing, a mile south of Ravenna on state route 14, will be removed by erecting a similar bridge at the point where the highway is crossed by the Baltimore & Ohio railway. The cost will be approximately $133,000 and the contract will be let within a month.

Contract has already been let for the construction of a subway on state route 7 at the west edge of Steubenville by the Pennsylvania railroad.

Except for the building of a subway on the Dixie highway north of Toledo at the Toledo Terminal railroad crossing, the Steubenville project, expected to cost $300,000, will be the most expensive. Estimated cost of the Toledo construction is $344,000.

Although the average cost of elimination of one crossing is approximately $125,000, the average cost in this year's program will be about $200,000, it was believed.

Crossings being considered for elimination include:

Belmont-co-United States Route 40 at Blaine on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad.

Wood-co—State route 275 at Lemoyne on the Hocking Valley, and state route 529 south of Toledo on the Pennsylvania railroad.

Huron-co—State route 267 at Bellevue on the Pennsylvania and Nickel Plate.

Lorain-co—State route 3 east of Vermillion on the Nickel Plate.

Columbiana-co—State route 12 southeast of Salem on the Pennsylvania.

Hamilton-co—State route 19 at Reading on the Pennsylvania.

Trumbull-co—State route 322 at Levittsburg on the Erie, Baltimore & Ohio and Nickel Plate.

Preble-co—State route 180 south of Eaton on the Pennsylvania.

In addition to crossings in Lorain, Portage, Jefferson and Lucas counties, the list of projects already decided upon also includes eliminations on the Lincoln highway 10 miles west of Upper Sandusky in Wyandotte-co, at Delta, in Fulton-co, Jewett in Harrison-co, Caldwell in Noble-co, Springfield in Clark-co, Centerburg in Knox county and Worthington in Franklin county.

Eliminations in the 1931 program were considered only after requests were received from county officials who believed the crossings relocations necessary, highway department officials said.

Even after the completion of this year's programs, still almost a thousand dangerous crossing will remain in the state, they indicated.

Nautical, But Nice

And now Dame-Fashion has definitely gone Marine, as witness in these engaging ensembles. Costume at left is of red and white Irish linen, worn with white kid opera pumps and a linen hat button-holed at the edges in red. At right is the colorful pajama costume also in Irish linen, with white trousers buttoned to red blouse. A large floppy linen hat in red completes this costume.

Federal Reserve Board Is Lauded By Business

NEW YORK.—The most powerful business tribunal in the world is probably the Federal Reserve Board.

So declared David Lawrence, veteran Washington Correspondent, who recalls in The Elks Mazazine that years ago he stood with a number of other newspaper men outside the cottage in Princeton, N. J., waiting to talk with Carter Glass immediately after the conference at which the Federal Reserve system was born.

Mr Glass, then Chairman of the Banking and Currency Committee of the House of Representatives—he is now a Virginia Senator—was conferring with President-elect Woodrow Wilson.

"When the Virginian emerged," Mr. Lawrence recalls, "several of the newspaper men asked him what it was all about. He said simply that he had been talking about a national banking situation. That didn't seem very new—the American people had been talking about that subject for a generation or more but nothing had been done about it. So little appeared in the headlines next day. Yet in that eventful conference was born the Federal Reserve System as we know it today."

Nobody, says Mr. Lawrence, will contend that the system is perfect. And almost every Congress holds discussions of possible improvements. But:

INFORMATION GATHERER

"It cannot be denied that the Federal Reserve Board through the twelve Federal Reserve Banks located in strategic points throughout the country is in a position to gather business information and to know the status of credit from coast to coast better than any other single agency of the government."

The new head of the Federal Reserve Board—Eugene Meyer, Jr.—is an ideal selection, Mr. Lawrence says. He was trained in business in New York and during the war he was one of the directors of the War Finance Corporation. Later he served as head of the Farm Loan System under President Coolidge.

SPRING TONICS IN VEGETABLE GARDEN

The best spring tonics are grown in the vegetable garden, states Miss Alma Garvin, extension specialist in home economics at the Ohio State University, who believes that greens, such as spinach, lettuce, kale, beet and turnip tops, asparagus, swiss chard, and cabbage, are superior to many bottled tonics as a means of pepping up a tired body.

These foods, she says, are good tonics because they contain the health-giving minerals, iron, lime, and phosphorus, in addition to vitamins A, B, and C. They are particularly rich in iron, the mineral essential for building good rich blood. The vitamins help the body to resist disease germs, increase the life span, and promote growth.

Another important function of greens is that they help keep the stomach and intestines clean. Indeed, a large helping of spinach or cabbage is a splendid way to avoid the use of castor oil to prevent constipation.

In preparing greens, it is best to wash them thoroughly and to cook them in the least amount of water possible. They are cooked just long enough to make them tender and, like all vegetables, should be served as quickly as possible after cooking.

Often a mixture of greens makes a more appetizing dish than does one kind of greens. A combination such as spinach and dandelions, swiss chard and kale, spinach, dock, mustard and lamb's quarter, is good.

A cream soup made from the cooked greens makes a most attractive dish. Many times, a salad made from some of the spring greens will prove tempting. When served with a hot dressing, dandelion, water cress or leaf lettuce makes a delicious salad.

Cowardice is the mother of cruelty.

COUNTY BILLS ARE REPORTED

Paying $1,656.87 in county bills was the chief business conducted by the county commissioners Monday.

Columbus workhouse was paid the highest sum of $198.40 for maintenance of Pickaway-co prisoners and John Bowsher was given the smallest sum of 50c for hauling paper.

NORTH TARRYTOWN, N. Y.—The bear facts about Fuzzy are that he became a little dissatisfied with the soft life, living on a rug in a stable at Miss Lillian Weaver's Seminary, a girls' boarding school. So the 165-pound mite of a bear wandered off to see the world. Police searched for him on the Pocantico Hills estate of John D. Rockefeller, but they couldn't find him.

Rheumatic 5 Years, All Pains Now Gone

Mrs. E. Aisenbrey, 3740 Bank Street, Westwood, Cincinnati, Ohio, says, "I was an almost constant sufferer from rheumatism for five terrible years. My back and joints were continually stiff and the muscles up and down my back were so sore that they were painful even to the lightest touch. Often I could not sleep with any degree of comfort. I took only a few bottles of MALVA and now my pains are all gone, and I am feeling better than I have felt for many years."

Why not try a bottle—today?

Loans up to $1000

Borrow money to meet practical emergency needs, but not to "keep up with the Joneses."

Borrowing money to buy a radio horse or an oil painting is the height of folly. But we all know there are plenty of "high hats" on "low brows"—and not all the hats are paid for.

Being practical in buying you'll be practical in borrowing. It's folly to put off buying a real bargain when you have cash in hand simply because you have none. It's wisdom to call at The City Loan to get the money required.

The City Loan is a vital money service devoted to thousands of people who borrow money for practical personal needs.

The Monday evening game ... called on account of darkness ...r the two teams had battled ... nine inning, neither nine being ... to break a deadlock which ...evailed after the fourth inning. The Cokes started the fire works ...the first frame when they count... four runs after two were out. ...ey came back with two in the ...urth. The Grocers did all their ...oring in the fourth frame, six ..., on four solid hits and three ...rrors.

NEARLY WIN

The Grocers came near winning ...e old ball game in the closing ...ssion when the first two men ...the plate singled but Bob Mal... tightened up and after one ...an had fouled out, the second ...pped in the infield and the third ...ssed a runner at second base. The Grocers outhit the pop-shop ...w, 10 to 6, and were guilty of ...o errors while the Cokes mis...ayed six times.

UMPIRING FINE

One item that can't possibly go ...entioned, was the excellent of...iating of Cum Robinson and ...ebb Miller. Not once was a de...sion made that did not coincide ...th the concensus of opinion of ...e crowd. Not once did a player ...sk at a ruling and not once was ...istake of any importance notic... The success of the league, in a large way, depends upon the type of umpiring produced and these two men certainly deserve credit for their unbiased work Monday evening.

Festivities were started Monday when Mayor B. T. Hedges cut the heart of the plate with the first pitch.

The Circleville Oils and the Red Men play Tuesday evening.

Ohio's Athletes Shine On Track

BY CHUB BEALY.

COLUMBUS, O., May 5.—The ...ilum of hurrahing for Jack ...eller had quieted today and ...me unidentified statistician took ...e time to figure out that native ...uckeyes set eight of the 13 new ...ecords in the Ohio Relays Friday ...d Saturday.

After all, declared the president ...f the Loyal Ohio Boosters asso...iation, the fact that Keller, an ...hio State sophomore, bettered ...e world's record in the 120-yard ...gh hurdles, ought to be enough ...itself to cinch the argument ...r this state.

"But if any more is wanted," he ...untered, "what about the new ...official world's record set by ...e Ohio State shuttle hurdle re... team?"

OHIOANS SHINE

And then, a little stiffly, he call... the world's attention to the ...mmaries which revealed that ...ly one of the highly advertised ...t-of-the-state prep schools took ...me a record, though four such ...ks were grabbed off by Ohio ...ns.

...ore comfort could be found for ...ans in the fact that three ...mbers of the Ohio State world's ...championship shuttle hurdle relay ...m are native Buckeyes, Mort ...kman of Brooklyn being the ...n outsider.

...sides Keller, the Ohioans who ...n the 480 yards in 1:01.6, two-...ths of a second faster than the ...rld's record, were Willie Rich...ds of Columbus and Johnny ...ck of Lima.

There was also cause for crow... in Ohio State's capturing of ...e first places while Michigan ...d Illinois could take but three ...ch.

Ralston Russell of Pomeroy, ...s responsible for one of those ...st places after he jumped 6 feet ...inches to win the university high ...mp.

Ohio State's two-mile relay ...am of Dille, Bloor, Brown and ...etham, which beat out Michi...n, and the one-mile team, with ...loyd Wise replacing Dille in the ...st lap, were the other winners.

Ohio also discovered that it has ...weight man in Otto Vokaty, the ...eidelberg football star, who fin...hed fourth in the shot put event ...hen Hugh Rhea of Nebraska ...oke the record. Vokaty was the ...nly Ohioan to place in that event.

It took the Ohio Relays to re...eal Rowlands of Miami at his ...st in the javelin throw. He fin... ished first, ahead of Frye of Akron, Kopnicki of Pittsburgh, and Curry of Purdue, with a toss of 178 feet 3 inches.

Besides Keller's 14.3 seconds race, in which he defeated Lee Sentman of Illinois, and the Ohio State shuttle hurdle team's victory, the new records were divided as follows:

OHIO

Vincent Murphy of Cleveland Cathedral Latin, high school high jump, 6 feet 2 inches. (Relays record).

Columbus Central, mile relay for high schools, 3:27.1. (Relays record).

Columbus Central, half mile relay for high schools, 1:31.5. (Relays record).

Dayton Oakwood, mile relay for Class B high schools, 3:32.8. (Relays record).

De Armond Hutson of Denison, 100-yard dash for Ohio colleges, 9.7 seconds. (Relays record).

Miami, sprint medley for Ohio colleges, 3:33.8. (Relays record).

ALL OTHERS

Ray Utterbach of Pittsburgh, university broad jump, 24 feet. (Relays record).

Hugh Rhea of Nebraska, university shot put, 48 feet 10 inches. (Relays record).

Illinois, four-mile relay for colleges and universities, 17:50.6. (Relays record).

Lee Sentman of Illinois, 120-yard high hurdles, 14.6 seconds. (Relays record later broken by Keller).

Central Collegiate Institute of Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, prep school two-mile relay, 8:15.6. (National scholastic record).

HACK WILSON, HORNSBY AT ODDS, REPORT

Slugger Loses Spotlight To Rajah; Becomes Angered It Is Said.

NEW YORK, May 5—One of the most bitter fueds in the history of base ball has devileved between Rogers Honsby, the new manager of the Chicago Cubs, and Hack Wilson, his center fielder and 1930 home run champion, according to reports from the west.

The gossips have it that Wilson, who never liked Hohnsby anyway, was so burned up when Rogers' mightly club early this season started to take the play away from him, that he went into a big sulk, stepping up to the plate with a don't care air like the winner of the booby prize at a coffee klatsh. But this rumor was somewhat belied today for the slugging hero of last year got a homer yesterday as the Cubs tin-canned the Cincy Reds, 13 to 1.

But was only his second four-baser of the season and just look what Manager Hornsby has to dangle in front of the Chicago fans. He is leading the national league with five homers, is fourth in leading hitters with .390 and yesterday he got three hits in all, one more than Hack, besides making Wilson tak on a tinge of jade by driving in three runs.

The New York Giants moved closer on the league leading Cardinals of St. Louis, who were idle, by clipping the Brooklyn Robins, 6 to 3. Spitters by Mitchell, who allowed only six hits, caused the Robins' dismay.

Lazerri's bobble and some plain and fancy hitting by the Senators in the sixth inning gave Washington five runs and finally defeat of the Yankees, 7 to 3.

The Athletics' pitchers evidently became confused and thought they blonged to their brothers, the Phillies, for they were helpless before the Boston Red Sox hitters, who basketed 15 clouts to win 7 to 5. Rothrock and Pickering homered.

Brandt gave the Phillies only three hits and won for the Boston Braves 4 to 3. Red Worthington, rookie, got three safeties for the Braves.

Goslin homered as the St. Louis Browns humbled the Cleveland Indians, 3 to 1.

McManus and H. Walker led Detroit's hitters in an attack on the White Sox, who contributed four errors to aid in the Tigers' 9 to 3 grab.

Brooklyn Boy, Bullied, Becomes Bull Battler

NEW YORK.—Sidney Franklin, full-fledged bull-fighter despite the fact that he was born and raised in Brooklyn, N. Y., is engaged in his hazardous business because he was kidded.

Several years ago, when he saw his first bull fight in Mexico City, he said he thought $7,000 a performance was too much for such easy work—that an American could do anything he set out to do, including learning to be a bull-fighter and that the belief that only a Spaniard could survive the ring was a lot of baloney.

"From then on," he says in The Elks Magazine, "I had to take an unmerciful kidding. It got around Mexico City that an American had said he could be a bull-fighter. Everybody took a shot at me. I was going around with a crowd of artists and theatrical people. When I entered the theatre, the comedian would start 'ad libbing' and point me out as the would-be American bull-fighter. This always gave the audience a big laugh."

It gave Franklin something else—the determination to make his boast good. He studied under Rodolfo Gaona, Mexico's greatest bull-fighter. He spent some time on a ranch where bulls were raised for the ring, practicing with heifers. He was knocked down over and over again, and turned into an area of black and blue marks, but he stuck to it. Finally he went back to Mexico City, obtained an engagement and made a go of it, although it was a sorry performance, with no artistry.

His friends thought that, having established his point, he would quit the ring, but he had another idea. The place fascinated him. He barnstormed border cities to get much-needed training. Soon he was in Spain, and there he appeared in the most famous rings of the homeland of the sport. He has been gored more than once—but he is still at it.

"I wouldn't advise anyone else to take it up," he says in The Elks Magazine, "but now that I am in it, I wouldn't be anywhere else."

PLAY BY PLAY

FIRST INNING

Coco Colas—Dumm flied out to Glitt in left field, Heeter did likewise Valentine tallied the first hit of the year, a line tripple to left which Glitt started in on, then went back, too late. Geib's single over the first base sack scored Valentine and when the ball hit an automobile and Lumpe booted the pellet the runner went to third. Wefler's single to left scored Geib. Wilson beat out an infield single and on a passed ball he went to second and Welfer to third. Both runners scored on Barr's hot single to right. Davis grounded out Watson to Kline. Four runs, five hits, one error.

Grocers—Glitt popped to Davis. Kline was out Dumm to Geib. Mettler popped to Maloney. No runs, no hits, no errors.

SECOND ENNING

Coca Colas—Maloney beat out a hit to Wallace. Maloney was picked off first on a snap throw from Gordon to Kline. Dumm watched the third strike go by and Heeter swung and missed the third offering. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Grocers—Watson grounded out to Wefler. Gordon was out Davis to Geib. Wallace singled to right center. Walters was safe on Geib's error on his ground ball and Wallace went to third. Young flied out to Wilson. No runs, one hit, one error.

THIRD INNING

Coca Colas—Valentine singled to left. Geib doubled to right and Valentine pulled up at third. Wefler popped to Walters. Valentine scored and Geib went to third on a passed ball. Wilson reached first as Mettler erred on his grounder and Geib scored. Barr forced Wilson at second and Davis fouled out to Mettler. Two runs, two hits, one error.

Grocers—Lumpe flied out to Dumm back to second. Glitt grounded out Wefler to Geib. Kline was out Davis to Geib. No runs, no hits, no errors.

FOURTH INNING

Coca Colas—Maloney was out Mettler to Kline. Dumm singled through second. Heeter flied out to Young and Heeter was tossed out Mettler to Kline. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Grocers—Mettler drove a single through Davis. Watson popped to Maloney. Gordon drove a hit to center scoring Mettler with the first Grocer run. Wallace was safe at first when Maloney dropped his pop fly. Walters slashed a single to center which scored both Gordon and Wallace. Young went to first and Walters to second on Wefler's error. Lumpe's grounder went through Dumm and Walters scored. Young went to third. Glitt flied out Young scoring after the catch. Kline's liner to right scored Lumpe with the tying run. Mettler, up for the second time in the inning, flied to Wilson for the third out. Six runs, four hits, three errors.

FIFTH INNING

Coco Colas—Kline took Geib's grounder for the first out. Wefler was safe when Wallace dropped his grounder. Wilson popped out to Wallace who made a nice catch back of second. Barr popped to Mettler. No runs, no hits, one error.

Grocers—Maloney knocked down Watson's smash and tossed him out. Gordon reached first when Geib dropped Wefler's perfect throw. Wallace flied out to Dumm, and Walters forced Gordon, Davis to Dumm. No runs, no hits, one error.

SIXTH INNING

Coca Colas—Davis fouled to Glitt who made a leaping catch Maloney straight into Glitt's hands and Dumm was out Wallace to Kline. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Grocers—Glitt walked after Young had grounded to Wefler and Lumpe had popped to Maloney. Kline popped to Dumm to end the round. No runs, no hits, no errors.

SEVENTH INNING

Coco Colas — Heeter grounded out to Watson and Valentine popped to Kline. Geib hit a long fly to right field, the ball rolling under an automobile. He made the circuit but was called back on account of ground rules holding any ball going under an automobile to two bases. Wefler poped to Kline. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Grocers—Mettler popped to Davis and Watson lined a single to center. Watson tried to steal second base with Maloney holding the ball and was out to Dumm. Gordon popped to Dumm. No runs, one hit, no errors.

EIGHTH INNING

Coco Colas—Wilson was safe at first and took second on an overthrew Barr sent a long fly to center Wilson going to third after the catch. Davis popped to Mettler and Glitt went into center field to take Maloney's bid for a hit. No runs, no hits, one error.

Grocers—Wallace singled over second. Wallace was forced at second by Walters, Davis to Dumm, but when Dumm and Wallace collided the fielder dropped the ball and both runners were safe. Young flied to center field Wallace taking third after the catch, Walters going to second. Lumpe lined out to Dumm. Dumm made a nice catch in short right field on Glitt's fly. No runs, one hit, one error.

NINTH INNING

Coca Colas—Dumm grounded out Watson to Kline. Heeter was passed and took second on a passed ball. Valentine grounded out to Mettler and Heeter was held at second. Geib popped to Kline. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Grocers—Kline beat out a grounder to Davis. Mettler lined a single to left Kline pulling up at second. Watson popped a foul to Valentine, Gordon popped to Wefler and Wallace forced Mettler at second. No runs, two hits, no errors.

The game was called by the umpires on account of darkness.

PAIN IN YOUR SHOULDER?

Use Tyzmol for Relief

Knife-like jabs of pain in the vicinity of the shoulder blade are generally due to neuritis, brought on by exposure to draughts or sudden changes of weather. In some cases there is stiffness or soreness in the muscles, making it difficult to raise the arm.

The safest and easiest way to relieve such an attack is to apply a small quantity of Tyzmol over the affected area. This soothing, healing preparation is quickly absorbed through the pores and carried to the throbbing, aching peripheral nerves. The pains usually stop at once, and in a very short time the last trace of soreness should disappear.

Tyzmol is absolutely harmless—free from dope. Recommended for all forms of nerve pain, whether caused by neuritis, neuralgia, sciatica or rheumatism. Sold by leading druggists. Always on hand at

Pickaway-co Health News

Woodrow McCormick of Deercreek-twp, thirteen-years-old, took sick three weeks ago with a slight toothache, which received the normal and usual attention. A week later his tonsils swelled up considerably and demanded medical attention. Dr. George Cooper, of Clarksburg, took care of him with slight improvement. Two weeks later he took seriously ill with vomiting, fever, and complete paralysis of his upper and lower extremities. Drs. Cooper and Davis were consulted and they pronounced it to be a case of infantile paralysis.

While the child's condition is not very grave, and his chance for recovery favorable, it ought to serve us a good lesson that remember the old saying that a "stitch in time saves nine, and an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure"

If the child's resistance would have been up to par and these minor things attended to, he would have stood better the attack of infections Each person carries in his system a number of germs and has to be constantly on the lookout for their attack. As long as the body is in perfectly good condition these germs are dormant and inactive, but as soon as the body's resistance goes down these germs get the upper hand and cause a lot of trouble known as disease. Body resistance is known to science as Immunity, a form of protection that the body has within itself to resist the bad effects of these pathogenic germs. A neglected tooth, inflamed tonsils, enlarged glands, coughs and other conditions are evidences that these pathogenic germs are active in our body and that our resistance has been lowered to combat them.

It behooves every person young and old to be up to par in physical condition and to remedy immediately thos minor conditions such as toothaches, inflamed tonsils, etc. Consult your dentist and family physician for these conditions at your earliest stages, and don't wait until they are too far advanced as they may become complicated and result into very serious conditions.

VOL. 3. NO. 17. — Tuesday, May 5, 1931

Yesterday we saw Mrs. S. T. Rife golfing in the afternoon. The day before, we noticed Mrs. Karl Herrmann motoring when most housewives were struggling with the evening meal. Our spies have reported that Mrs. Jack Kirwin has been seen wearing a calm, unruffled look about ten minutes before dinner-time.

Don't go, all this is leading up to something.

Homer (of course, you remember Homer?) is not hinting much any more. Instead, he's a detective of sorts, and it was he who gave us the low down.

"Very elementary, my dear Steve," was Homer's comment. "These ladies under discussion own Estate Gas Ranges. The food goes into the oven. The temperature control takes complete charge and the food is cooked perfectly. In the meantime, it isn't necessary to hang around, so these ladies help themselves to many more hours of leisure, and if you ask me, or if you don't, I'm in favor of it."

It's wonderful how Homer figures those things out. Of course, we should have remembered that we sold these ladies their Estates. Goodness knows, we praised them often enough. And it's the kind of sincere praise which makes us realize that for real, swell results, there's nothing like an Estate.

Come in and ask us: we'll tell you. Or, better yet, ask your neighbor who owns an Estate. She'll tell you, too And then come in for a complete demonstration. If you're in the market for a new range, you can't get anything better than an Estate. (Come, come now, let's have the truth).

All right, then—you can't get anything nearly as good.

Standard Rating Scale for Buying Electric Refrigeration

Question No. 5: Will the refrigerator constantly maintain a proper temperature for the preservation of foods?

Answer: A constant temperature in the refrigerator depends upon the capacity of the unit and the control which makes the fullest use of this capacity. Kelvinator cooling and condensing units are "Oversize" units with an abundance of refrigerating capacity, which, with the automatic thermostatic control, assures constant temperatures under all conditions.

If you were to ask up, we'd say that they were "spiffing" each other:

1st Salesman: My firm has just engaged ten men to do nothing but pump water to dampen stamps Our business is so large.

2nd Salesman: That's nothing. Our business is so huge that the head bookkeeper uses roller skates to go from debt to credit in his cash book.

When a customer looks at your merchandise, goes out, and looks in other stores, and comes back and buys YOUR goods, wouldn't you think that your merchandise was just about right and that it carries the right price? Last Friday morning a lady from up in the country called and looked at our rug display. She couldn't decide upon a rug, but went out without buying In the afternoon she came back told us that she had looked at other displays, and bought a rug from our stock. Of course, we're all "cocky" about our rugs and want you to come in and give them the once-over.

Those little pesky sparrows get lots of blame for carrying tales, so, we presume it will not hurt them any to lay the following story to them. It seems that the neighbors of T. C. Heffner, of near Cedar Hill, have been wondering how Mr. Heffner could accomplish so much work in a day. They noticed that he was doing more work now than he did a few days ago Well, folks, there's no secret about it—they had us put a new De Luxe bed-spring on their bed. And now when Mr. Heffner and his good wife, both tired out from their day's toil, retire, they get the "rest of their lives" and are "rarin' " to go upon arising. Take a tip from the Heffners.

Host (grandly): "Yes, there's doubt that the radio has come to stay . . . What is it, Hortense?"

Hortense: "It's a collector, sir. He says if you don't pay up the installments, he'll have to take your radio set back."

H E Betz, the fellow that serves "hash" to his customers in the room on the S. E corner of Court & Main-sts, was telling us the other day that he purchased a mattress from us some eight or nine years ago, and that, in spite of the many years of use, it looks as good as a new one. It's always a pleasure to sell good mattresses for anything else, for that matter).

Allen and Mrs Greeno's young hopeful is sporting a 1931 model of a Taylor-tot These baby tenders are a real help to mothers of young children that are learning to walk. It keeps them off the floor, and out of mischief, while they learn to use their legs And then, when Mother wishes to take her baby out on the street for an errand, there's a handle to pull or push the Taylor-tot while His (or Her) Lordship rides along in state. Later, when the art of walking has been accomplished, the Taylor-tot may be converted into a kiddie-kar. Every mother of young children should hie themselves down to our store and see the Taylor-tots.
